DETAILED ACTION

This action is in response to papers filed on March 17, 2008.

Claims 1, 9, 19, 30, 38, 48 and 49 have been amended.

Claims are pending.

Claims 1-2, 4, 7-11, 14-21, 24-28, 30-31, 33, 36-40 and 43-50 are rejected.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1-2, 4, 7-11, 14-21, 24-28, 30-31, 33, 36-40 and 43-50 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over US Patent Publication 2003/0174861;

Levy et al; Connected Audio and Other Media Objects. Hereinafter referred to as Levy, in view of US Patent 5, 638, 443 Stefik et al; System for Controlling the Distribution and Use of Composite Digital Works. Hereinafter referred to as Stefik.

3. As to claims 1, 9, 19, 30, 38, 48 and 49 Levy teaches

4. transmitting a request to download data, wherein said data comprises a content file; (Pg. 5 ¶ 42 “when the user request a file in a streaming or compressed file format)

5. receiving identification information and data downloaded from one of a plurality of content providers storing said data, said identification information identifying said one content provider and obtained by said one content provider from an original content provider of said data; transmitting, to said original content provider, said identification information for said one content provider, which downloaded said data, along with payment for the download of said data; (Pg. 4 ¶ 34 the OID is encoded with additional information about the distributor and identifies the object Pg. 6 ¶ 55 the registration process provides information identifying the attribute of the audio object such as its distributor(content provider) or broadcaster.)

6. transmitting, to said original content provider, a request for a distribution tool identifying said client as an additional content provider that distributes said data to other clients; (PG. 5 ¶ 44 the distributor ID is used for copy control, played, transferred, recored)

7. receiving said distribution tool; and (Pg 6 ¶ 61 the clearing house embeds the media objects and pushes them to the user)

8. Levy fails to teach applying said distribution tool to said data to identify said client as an additional content provider prior to distributing said data to another client, wherein said clients are operated by users of the content file.

9. However, Stefik teaches “distribution and use scenarios” in which he teaches utilizing the consumer as a distributor of the digital works either as a paid or unpaid distributor.”(C. 43 l. 28-68). It would have been obvious to one skilled in the art at the time of invention to combine Stefik’s consumer distributors with Levy’s retail distributors as a simple substitution of the consumer as the distributor rather than a retailer or broadcaster. This would allow the rights holder to expand their audience while maintaining the usage rights and associated fees while yielding predictable results of expanding the market and audience of the digital works.

10. As to claims 2, 4, 7 10-11, 14-15, 24-25, 31, 3, 36 and 43-44 Levy teaches the distribution tool as being an embedded watermark(Pg 1 12; Pg. 3 ¶ 30).
11. As to claims 8, 16, 26-27, 37, 45-47 and 55 Levy teaches transmitting payment to download data and paying distributor royalties(Pg. 4 ¶ 34).

Response to Arguments

12. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1, 9, 19, 30, 38, 48 and 4 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

13. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
